

Sarah's profile

After graduating high school, I went straight into full time work in the insurance industry as a receptionist. 12 years on, I have worked through various roles to become an account executive. I now enjoy looking after my own portfolio of clients. The people I look after range from residential property owners to commercial business operators. My experience working for a Sports Insurance company during a working holiday overseas has helped me specialise in insurance solutions for sports and associated activities. My personal love of fitness also helps. Along the way I have acquired various qualifications including a university degree and diploma in Financial Services (Broking), I am fortunate to be part of an industry where learning and developing is ongoing. This is extremely rewarding professionally and personally.
